

President's Report Roaring into Rainy Season ASHRAE!

Hello ASHRAE Dallas!

We had another great round of events in March. We hosted Mick Schwedler, 2021-2022 ASHRAE President, for a GBCI and AIA Approved technical discussion centered on chilled water systems: common mistakes and how to avoid or mitigate them. Our annual St. Patty's Day YEA Happy Hour hosted by DXS was at BlackFriar Pub. The Women in ASHRAE (WIA) Committee hosted a glassblowing event. And, quite a few Dallas chapter members supported the Fort Worth chapter at their golf tournament. What a great month!

April is shaping up to be just as fun! Hoping all of our Kansas State Wildcats come out for our April meeting to support Julia Keen who is a professor at K-State. She will discuss Targeting Success - Improve Employee Satisfaction, Retention, and Profit which is GBCI and AIA Approved. On April 11, Mike Brown, our Sustainability Committee Chair, setup a White Rock Lake Shoreline Spruce Up. Our Spring Golf Classic at Rangers Golf Club is on April 17. We have a few spots left so sign up today. Most importantly, we need Sponsors! Reach out to Clare at rp@dallas-ashrae.org.

Don't forget! The Chapter Regional Conference (CRC) in Little Rock on April 24-25. We encourage our members who are looking to get involved in the Chapter to attend. Feel free to reach out to the Board with any questions.

Thank you to our Members, Board, Committee Members and Chairs, and all of our Guests and Volunteers for your support of ASHRAE and the Dallas chapter!

Earth Day in Dallas: Turning Sustainability into Action

How Our Industry Can Lead—Locally and Practically

Each year, Earth Day serves as a reminder of the role we all play in shaping a more sustainable future. But in the built environment—especially here in Dallas—progress isn't driven by a single day. It's driven by the everyday decisions engineers, designers, and owners make across every project. So as Earth Day approaches, the question becomes:

How do we translate awareness into real, measurable impact in North Texas?

1. Focus on What Moves the Needle

In our market, sustainability doesn't always mean all-electric buildings or net-zero targets on day one.

Instead, high-impact strategies include:

- Improving building envelope performance early in design
- Optimizing HVAC systems with heat pump technologies
- Reducing unnecessary ventilation and plug loads through better modeling assumptions

Small, informed decisions across many projects create meaningful change at scale.

2. Design for Dallas—Not Just for Theory

Sustainable design must respond to local realities:

- Hot, humid summers
- Cost-sensitive development environments
- Grid dynamics managed by Electric Reliability Council of Texas

This means:

- Prioritizing systems that perform reliably in our climate
- Balancing electrification with resilience and cost
- Avoiding “one-size-fits-all” solutions from other regions

The most effective sustainability strategies are regionally appropriate and practically implementable.

3. Engage Beyond the Project Site

Earth Day is also an opportunity to connect as a community.

Ways Dallas professionals can get involved:

- Attend local sustainability-focused panels and networking events
- Partner with organizations like U.S. Green Building Council Texas for volunteer or educational opportunities
- Share project insights and lessons learned with peers

Collective knowledge-sharing accelerates progress across the entire industry.

Earth Day in Dallas: Turning Sustainability into Action

4. Communicate Value to Owners

Sustainability conversations are most successful when framed around:

- Operational cost savings
- Tenant comfort and wellness
- Long-term asset value and risk mitigation

Frameworks like the AIA 2030 Commitment help guide these discussions—but ultimately, alignment with owner priorities drives adoption.

Earth Day Challenge: One Action, One Impact

This Earth Day, consider committing to one action on your next project:

- Revisit envelope assumptions earlier in design
- Validate ventilation and occupancy inputs in your energy model/loads
- Propose one electrification strategy that aligns with project goals

Final Thought

Earth Day is not just a milestone—it's a checkpoint.

For the Dallas AEC community, it's a reminder that practical, consistent progress—project by project—is how we move toward a more sustainable built environment.
